

It is my most fervent hope that the current ownership restrictions will remain in place and further media consolidation is prevented. Receiving unbiased information and wading through homogenous programming is already difficult enough.